Notice to Individual Surety

A probate bond is a bond with security given to secure the faithful performance by an appointed fiduciary of the duties of his or her trust and the administration of, and accounting for, all monies and other property coming into his or her hands, as fiduciary, according to law.

By agreeing to serve as surety on a probate bond, you obligate yourself individually to be responsible in the event that the fiduciary for whom you are to serve as surety, or any co-fiduciary, breaches his or her fiduciary duty. In the event that you are held liable as surety, your assets and your earnings may be taken to satisfy your obligation.

Your agreeing to serve as surety on a probate bond is purely voluntary act. If you agree to act, you may thereafter seek a discharge from your obligation by application to the probate court, but such a discharge, if granted, will not relieve you of liability for breaches which occurred while you were a surety.

You should inform the probate court in which you are serving as surety if you move from Connecticut. Upon becoming a non-resident of Connecticut during the period of your suretyship, you must immediately file a certificate of appointment of the judge of probate as your attorney for service of process in any action or proceeding against you or your property in connection with your suretyship.

Notice Applicable to all Principals and Sureties

Surety for a fiduciary serving with co-fiduciaries: By becoming a surety on the probate bond of a co-fiduciary, you accept the obligation to pay the damages resulting from a breach of any condition of a co-fiduciary's bond, upon determination of the amount of damages in accordance with law.

Agreements between fiduciary and surety: A surety must disclose to the probate court and immediately furnish the court a copy of any agreement between the surety and fiduciary relating to the suretyship or its continuation.

Principal and surety -- obligation and penalty of bond extend to real estate and assets under an Order of Restriction on Control of Assets: While the amount of this bond may be less than would otherwise have been required, either because an asset of the estate is real estate or because an asset of the estate is subject to an Order of Restriction on Control of Assets, the obligation and penalty of this bond nevertheless extend to all duties of the fiduciary, including duties with respect to the real estate or an asset subject to the Order of Restriction on Control of Assets.

An AFFIDAVIT OF FINANCIAL RESPONSIBILITY by each individual surety has been filed with the probate court.
